

National Day of Reflection – March 23rd, one year after the start of lockdown UK

Marie Curie charity invite you to join in the National Day of Reflection.

Since the first lockdown began in 2020, hundreds of thousands of people have died. Too many lives have been cut short and millions have been bereaved.

Behind the statistics and whatever the cause, every death has been devastating for the people left behind.

Join us on 23 March, the first anniversary of the first UK lockdown, for a National Day of Reflection to reflect on our collective loss, support those who've been bereaved, and hope for a brighter future.

There are still tough times ahead, as the death toll continues to rise. This annual day will give us all time to pause and think about this unprecedented loss we're facing, and support each other through grief in the years to come.

Our church is encouraging people to join this opportunity to come together with hope for the future, with a window display in the lower church hall window, of coloured in pictures of spring flowers, representing hope.

You can find out more about suggestions of how you can join in the reflection at 12 noon online and at home at 8pm: Marie Curie Day of Reflection
